Introduction

The Department for Culture, Media and Sport is setting up a large research panel in England called the "Taking Part Web Panel". The purpose of this panel is to support the department's aim to enrich people's lives and gain a better understanding of why people may or may not take part in cultural, leisure and sporting activities.

- To gain this understanding, the department would like you to complete a short questionnaire on the Internet four times a year. The questionnaires will check whether you are still doing the same activities and ask about any new activities you may have done.
- The department is particularly interested in finding out why you may be doing more or less of any activities. The results of the survey will inform government policy.
- By participating in the "Taking Part Web Panel" you will be helping the Government to make Britain a more creative and exciting place to live and visit.
- You will also receive up to £15 in the first year as a thank you for taking part: £5 for going online and completing the first questionnaire which should only take about 5 minutes of your time and £2.50 for each quarterly questionnaire that you complete.
- It is very important that as many people as possible join the web panel. Only then can we be sure that the results represent the experiences of everyone living in England.
- INTERVIEWER IF ASKED; The quarterly questionnaires take 15 minutes.

ASK ALL
INTERVIEWER: THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS SHOULD BE ASKED OF A PARENT/GUARDIAN OF THE 11-15 YEAR OLD YOU HAVE JUST INTERVIEWED.

WEBPERM

Thank you for letting me interview ^[NNAME]. I just have a couple of questions for you to check if you are happy for me to ask ^[NNAME] about possible future involvement.

The Department for Culture, Media and Sport is setting up a large research panel in England called the "Taking Part Web Panel". The purpose of this panel is to support the department's aim to enrich people's lives and gain a better understanding of why people may or may not take part in cultural, leisure and sporting activities.

- To gain this understanding, the department would like your child to complete a short questionnaire on the Internet four times a year. The questionnaires will check whether he/she is still doing the same activities and ask about any new activities they may have done.
- The department is particularly interested in finding out why children may be doing more or less of any activities. The results of the survey will inform government policy.
- The questions will be similar to those asked today – covering participation in sport and leisure activities.
- By participating in the "Taking Part Web Panel" he/she will be helping the Government to make Britain a more creative and exciting place to live and visit.
- They will also receive up to £15 in the first year as a thank you for taking part: £5 for going online and completing the first questionnaire which should only take about 5 minutes and £2.50 for each quarterly questionnaire that they complete. These will be in the form of e-vouchers
- It is very important that as many people as possible join the web panel. Only then can we be sure that the results represent the experiences of everyone living in England.
- HAND OVER leaflet that provides more information about the "Taking Part Web Panel".

The Department for Education holds information about your child's education. This includes the schools they've been to, the subjects and exams they've done, their attendance at school, if they've been suspended or expelled and if they have a special educational need or have been eligible for free school meals.

We would like to add this information to the answers from this survey. This will create a more accurate picture of your child's life and experiences, and will be used for research purposes only. Your child's information is confidential and this means that their name and address will never be included in the results. It will be impossible to identify them in reports.

To add this information we need your permission to create a link between your child's education information and their survey answers, before we make their records anonymous so that no-one can identify them. The Department for Culture, Media and Sport is setting up a large research panel in England called the "Taking Part Web Panel". The purpose of this panel is to support the department's aim to enrich people's lives and gain a better understanding of why people may or may not take part in cultural, leisure and sporting activities.

- To gain this understanding, the department would like you to complete a short questionnaire on the Internet four times a year. The questionnaires will check whether you are still doing the same activities and ask about any new activities you may have done.
- The department is particularly interested in finding out why people may be doing more or less of any activities. The results of the survey will inform government policy.
- The questions will be similar to those asked today – covering participation in sport and leisure activities.
- By participating in the "Taking Part Web Panel" you will be helping the Government to make Britain a more creative and exciting place to live and visit.
- You will also receive up to £15 in the first year as a thank you for taking part: £5 for going online and completing the first questionnaire which should only take about 5 minutes and £2.50 for each quarterly questionnaire that you complete. These will be in the form of e-vouchers
- It is very important that as many people as possible join the web panel. Only then can we be sure that the results represent the experiences of everyone living in England.
- HAND OVER leaflet that provides more information about the "Taking Part Web Panel".
